

£500K

CASE STUDY 1: SPORT

Complex global travel at short notice

With a budget of £500k and one week's notice, we were asked to ensure that 43 members of the Uruguayan Football squad and staff made it to Seoul and Tokyo for the arranged international friendlies with South Korea and Japan.

Very few of the travelling party were in the same location. In fact, not one of the Uruguayan national team represented a domestic club within Uruguay. This meant we had to work quickly to figure out the most efficient way to get the 23 players from their different locations throughout Europe, North, Central and South America to the hosting nations, in time and within budget.

Creative booking solutions

Complicating matters further, four members of the Uruguayan-based coaching staff could not acquire an ESTA. Without this, they couldn't travel on the best route, via Miami. We came up with a more creative route, without impacting the agreed budget.

Last minute changes

When a player became injured during the first friendly, their club asked for them to be repatriated so that they could assess and treat the injury. The ISON Account Manager was contacted late at night and booked the injured player on a flight departing the next day.

Exceeding expectations

We exceeded the expectations of the Match Agent and football associations involved by successfully transporting the entire team from multiple 'to and from' locations on schedule and on budget; coming up with creative solutions to visa issues and providing 24/7 support, which ensured an injured team member was transported home for treatment quickly and safely.
